We had American Foundation excavate and put braces in our basement to fix large cracking/bowing of a couple walls. We were/are very happy with their service. It was a pretty big job in that they had to dig out next to the house on two sides, realign the walls, put the brackets in and re-fill the trenches. They estimated the job would take 3-4 days. They did it in about three days. That week it was probably the hottest week of the summer (close to 100 degrees) and the guys worked steadily the entire time. I have to say I was quite amazed at how hard and long they all worked. I don't really think they even broke for lunch. They were very respectful of our yard and put down plywood where their equipment had to drive over to protect the grass as much as possible. They were also very respectful of the inside of our house. Since they often had to be inside as well as outside they made sure to close the door since the air conditioner was running. Overall I was very happy we picked American for the job and would recommend them to anyone.

To sum up key points about American.....

- The cost was exactly as the estimate listed
- They finished the project even sooner than they estimated
- They were very neat and respectful of our home and yard
- Our walls in the basement are now straight and the cracks gone
